ANOTHER ATTEMPT AT LICENSE

Is Made by the Rejected Applicants, and They Get a Favorable Recommendation from

PETITIONS-REMONSTRANCES

Committee—The Fight Will Now be Taken to Council, and a Strong Opposition Will Line Up.

First blood in their latest attempt to get licenses was scored by applicants at last night's meeting of the council committee on petitions and remonstrances. Nine licenses were recommended favorably to council, and a stormy session may be looked for when that body meets next Tuesday evening. The committee's action was an appalling surprise to many, and the clean sweep of the applications took away the breath from people when they learned of it. The fight is now up to council again, and the matter will be the feature of its meeting.

The nine applications were as follows:

Howard Hastings, 2004-2006 Main street.

J. B. Wilkie, coffee house, 7 and 9 Sixteenth street.

W. O. Walker, coffee house, 1123 Water street.

Otto Fish, coffee house, 39 Eighteenth street.

Allan A. Smith, coffee house, 1516 Main street.

Richard Wilkie, coffee house, 1925 Main street.

C. F. Blery, coffee house, 1932 Market street.

G. A. Landmesser & Co., ordinary, 1944 Market street.

Minnie Seker, coffee house, 1028-1030 Market street.

The members of the committee present were Messrs. Bradbury, Bloomfield, Bachman, Williams and Ritter, the former, who is chairman, presiding. Mr. Bloomfield was paired with Mr. Zwickler, and hence did not vote, although he was opposed to the applications, and he retired from the committee room shortly after the meeting began. The licenses were passed on without much discussion, and no protests were made, except that Councilman Ross T. Chew, who is not a member of the committee, but has vigorously opposed licensing objectionable places, took occasion to give voice in a few words to a strong denunciation of the resorts.

The first application came from Howard Hastings for the Imperial hotel, for which the former applicant was Joseph Barum. As Mr. Hastings was a new applicant and bore a good name his application was not classed with the bunch that has been hanging in the balance since the middle of April. It was acted on favorably on motion of Mr. Ritter, who acted in a similar capacity for most of the applications, with Mr. Bachman a seconder, and Mr. Williams tacitly affirmative.

On Mr. Ritter's motion the other applications that came in a bunch were taken up singly.

J. B. Wilkie's was the first document up. Chairman Bradbury inquired whether the "stalls" had been taken out of the applicant's place, and he said some of the applicants had given assurances that they would do right in the future. If the places were conducted according to the law the chairman thought it was not necessary to shut them up for good.

It was said representations had been made by Mr. Wilkie for the proper conduct of his place, and Mr. Ritter, seconded by Mr. Bachman, moved the granting of the Wilkie license. It was granted.

The application of Wm. O. Walker, colored, was next considered. None of the committee knew anything of the applicant personally or his place, and Ross T. Chew, who sat near the partition dividing the committee room from the city clerk's desk, was appealed to for information.

"I'm not a member of the committee," he said.

"Well, you have the committee's permission," said Mr. Bradbury.

"You all know my opinion of those places—the whole bunch before you. They will not be run any better in the future, either. That's all I have to say."

The Walker application was then "held up" on Mr. Bachman's motion.

A license was granted to Otto Fish. The application of Minnie Seker for a license at the Valentine Leibold place, opposite the Second ward market house, met a fate similar to W. O. Walker.

Allan A. Smith was better treated. The mover was Mr. Ritter, seconded by Mr. Bachman.

Richard Wilkie was also said to have promised to be good. His license was granted, the same committee men moving and seconding. Wilkie had taken out his stalls, it was said, and Ross Chew laughed aloud. Mr. Chew smiled grimly throughout the proceedings.

The license of Fred Blery was granted next. His brother, Paul Blery, had applied before, but his application was held up in the first branch of council by Mr. Bachman, who was twitted about it by Mr. Chew. Mr. Bachman replied that he held this license up because he didn't believe in Blery having a monopoly in his section, while others were held up.

Then came the Landmesser petition. Chairman Bradbury said the White Cloud had been recently inspected by Councilmen John Waterhouse, J. P. Maxwell and others, at Mr. Landmesser's invitation, that they might see how he had removed the objectionable institutions, such as stalls.

Mr. Bachman said a good word for the place's appearance at present, and he seconded Mr. Ritter's motion to pass favorably on the application.

About this time Ross Chew was laughing hilariously from his position just outside the door.

Then Mr. Williams moved to recommend favorably to council all the licenses acted on, and it was so done.

On a reconsideration of a previous vote the Walker application was granted on Mr. Ritter's motion. The only objection cited was an old one—the fact that a robbery had occurred at Walker's place and the police had trouble with him thereby.

Mr. Bachman moved to grant Mrs. Seker's application. Mr. Ritter thought since the others were granted "she should be given a chance." None of the committee knew the woman. Chairman Bradbury thought Valentine Leibold was really the applicant, he instancing the latter's statement that he had a five-year lease on the premises, but Mr. Bachman said he had talked with the landlord and that the lease would be transferred to the person getting license. The recommendation for this license was the final proceeding.

Chairman Bradbury remarked, in adjourning, that the licenses would have to be fought out on the floor of council. The fight will materialize, all right.
